Appendix A5 – Historic Environment Features

Sites of Historic Significance

Site Name	Possible Roman Town
Reference	MLE1948
Location	The Ridgeway, Market Harborough
Approx Centre OS Coordinates	473989,288193
Summary	From L&R HER: A large quantity of Roman material found over the years seems likely to point towards a Roman settlement, possibly a town. Finds include over 800 sherds of Roman pottery, over 30 late Iron Age/early Roman sherds, a harness pendant, quern, nine coins, tesserae, etc.

Site Name	Iron Age/Roman Settlement
Reference	MLE19107
Location	Centenary Close, Market Harborough
Approx Centre OS Coordinates	473603,288300
Summary	From L&R HER: Archaeological work in 2011 and 2014 has recorded an Iron Age/Early Roman site here consisting of roundhouses and enclosures, with evidence for crop processing, animal husbandry and metalworking. The site includes a Late Iron Age human burial, an unusual deposit of a dog's skull in a pit, and a rare example of an Iron Age rectangular structure.

Site Name	St Mary's Church Burial Ground
Reference	MLE21842
Location	Great Bowden Road, Market Harborough
Approx Centre OS Coordinates	474094,287498
Summary	From L&R HER: The inhabitants of Market Harborough had been buried at St Mary's since the C15th as the church of St Dionysius had no churchyard. After 1614 burials continued although the church had become more of a mortuary chapel. Most of the remaining headstones in the churchyard are now set around the remains of the building.

Site Name	Historic Settlement Core of Market Harborough
Reference	MLE1959
Location	Market Harborough
Approx Centre OS Coordinates	473294,287338
Summary	From L&R HER: This town is first mentioned in 1176/7. It had a weekly market and an annual fair. These were prescriptive and occur for the first time in 1203. Burgage plots and the market place can be identified. The historic core is mapped using Turner's 1776 map.

Site Name	Enclosure
Reference	MLE1979
Location	Kings Head Close, Market Harborough
Approx Centre OS Coordinates	473402,287492
Summary	From L&R HER: An enclosure of c. six acres was recorded in the C18th. Slight earthworks remain in the gardens. It was thought that it might be Roman, though it is probably the remnants of old closes behind buildings on High Street. Various finds have been recovered from the site.

Site Name	Manuring Scatter
Reference	MLE19892
Location	Lower Green's Hill, Market Harborough
Approx Centre OS Coordinates	473734,288578
Summary	From L&R HER: A quantity of medieval and post-medieval finds were recovered during fieldwalking in 2011. These included large quantities of pottery, some clay pipe and various pieces of undated bone, metal (including a blade) and glass. It is likely these form part of a manuring scatter.
